Arkadiy Tsinis Wins Three Rings in One Week

WSOP bracelet winner, Miami poker and backgammon pro wins fourth Circuit ring this week

Another day, another Circuit ring for Arkadiy Tsinis of Miami, Florida. The poker and backgammon pro took down Event #10 $365 No-Limit Hold'em 6-Handed for $20,750 after defeating another fellow ring-winner heads-up. The final table was also stacked with 13 rings between four players.

When asked about what he does for a living, Tsinis responded, "This is what I do. Poker and backgammon, and I started a couple of businesses." The four-time ring winner claims to be the world's best backgammon player and explained that he plays "competitively. Same as poker. They have tournaments. As we speak, there's a tournament at Flamingo. I gave it up because this is much more lucrative. I just wanna have ten rings, you know. Ten fingers – that's it."

Tsinis has taken a massive lead in the Casino Championship race after this win, and will surely be taking a shot at the Main Event and final side events later this weekend.
