ANDREW LAUER WINS 3RD CIRCUIT RING IN SIX-MAX

After a long heads-up battle, Lauer captures his third career Circuit ring

"It feels amazing. I can only play a few events so when I came down I said the six-max is the one," said Andrew Lauer. It certainly was the one, earning himself $14,058 and his third career World Series of Poker Circuit ring.

"The third one was kind of elusive. I got heads-up down in Florida – didn't get it. Made a couple other final tables – couldn't get it. So to actually get it feels amazing. Gotta keep going for more though – get four and five," said a motivated Lauer.

The final table was not easy for Lauer though. "When I came into the final table I didn't love my seat. I had one of the chip leaders on my right and then I had, in my opinion, the best player at the table on my left - James Camby. So, I knew I was going to be handcuffed." A fortunate hand flopping top set against Camby's top pair gave him the boost he needed to get the job done.
