Like a prize fighter in an epically long boxing match, David Miscikowski took his punches in a heads-up battle against Norbert Szecsi. And, like a prize fighter, after every hit to his stack, he fought back, eventually triumphing over his tough competition to win his first bracelet in the $5,000 No Limit Hold'em event as well as a hefty $719,707 payday.

The mano a mano battle between Miscikowski and Szecsi topped off a tough final table in one of the more stacked fields of the summer. For the 28 year old Miscikowski, it is his first win at his first final table, but he has been posting consistent deep runs both live and online for several years.

Today, all that grinding paid off, and even the soft-spoken 28-year-old currently living in Costa Rica had to admit it was quite the personal accomplishment. "It feels great. This is one of the biggest sweats I've ever had," he said following his win. "It feels nice to come through."
