ROBERT ANGELERI ADDS RING #2 TO THE FAMILY

California entrepreneur wins his own first ring, moves into a tie with wife

Robert Angeleri is the WSOP Circuit's newest first-time winner. He outlasted a field of 132 entries in the one-day event, earning a gold ring and a five-figure top prize.

Angeleri, 41, is a part-time player from Kelseyville, California. He and his wife, Iris, buy and sell houses among other entrepreneurial pursuits. They play poker for fun, and they've found some good success at it, too.

Almost to the day, Robert's victory comes four years after his wife's first Circuit victory in the same building. The two were just married in May, but they've been together for more than a decade.

"Every time we come here, we seem to do good in tournaments," Robert said after his win. "Every year, we seem go back with more than we came with."

That'll be the case once again this year, as Robert collected $11,089 for his day of work.

While he was making moves on one side of the room, Iris was busy bagging up among the final 10 players in Event #1B. She'll return to the felt on Sunday to try to retake the ring lead for the Angeleri family.

Robert was the chip leader with 18 players left in this event before dropping down to the shortest stack in the field. With 10 players left, though, he won a huge double knockout pot with pocket tens, surging back into the chip lead.

He did not relinquish it again. Less than an hour later, Robert was posing for winner's photos with his new piece of jewelry and his wife by his side.

They're both WSOP Circuit winners now.
