SCOTT SANDERS WINS MONSTER STACK GOLD

Fun heads-up match leads to Scott Sanders scoring his first gold ring.

Scott Sanders scored his first World Series of Poker gold ring late Thursday evening at the Harveys Lake Tahoe Circuit. His triumph came in Event #8: $400 No-Limit Hold'em Monster Stack. The tournament drew a field of 332 entrants, generating a $109,560 prizepool, and took two days to complete.

In the end, it came down to Sanders and Marty Gorenc. It was a laid-back heads-up match that included banter, fans in the stands, and a few drinks for good measure. The two competitors were certainly having fun with it, a principle Sanders strongly stands by.

"If we don't have fun then poker will never grow, right?" expressed Sanders. "What my goal is, is to grow poker. I want people to play poker, and poker is going to die if people don't make it fun. So, that's my goal in poker, just to make it fun for people."

After a lot of back and forth, Sanders eventually took it down, leaving Gorenc with his third 2nd-place finish on the WSOP Circuit.

"It feels good to close one out, for sure; I'm stoked," said Sanders, following his win.

Last year, Sanders made a deep run at the Seminole Hard Rock Circuit in Hollywood, Florida. He ended up finishing in 3rd place for $62,255. This time around, the California native broke through to the top spot, earning $25,201. Sanders now has just over $100,000 in WSOP earnings from eight cashes.
