HAMID IZADI CLAIMS 3RD CIRCUIT RING IN EVENT #12

He earns $8,170 for his victory

Hamid Izadi secured his third Circuit ring on Monday afternoon after winning Event #12: $400 No-Limit Hold'em, which took two days to reach a conclusion. He topped a field of 80 entrants and banked $8,170.

Izadi is no stranger at the WSOP Circuit. He has an impressive resume with multiple deep runs, a couple of victories, and over $430,000 in total cashes.

"The feeling is great. As you know, I've had a bunch of runner-up finishes and a bunch of final tables. I should really have more. A ring is a symbol of your hard work, so I really value the ring."

Izadi gave a lot of credit to Andrew Lauer, who he defeated heads-up to claim the title, as well as the other players at the final table.

The guy I was playing heads-up against, Andrew (Lauer), he was playing good poker, but I got better cards, and I got maximum value for my cards. I thought it was going to be him and I heads up at the end. No offense to anybody else, everybody was playing good poker at the table, but the cards were on my side."

Izadi is not wasting time and is going in search of another title soon.

"I'm going to Southern Indiana to play the Main Event there and then Hammond. I'm going to all the stops. I love the Circuit."
