JOHN HOLLINGSWORTH WINS FIRST EVER TOURNAMENT IN LAKE TAHOE

Sound engineer from Hampton, VA records his first tournament result in Event #7

John Hollingsworth topped a field of 205 entries in Event #7 to book his first ever live tournament cash and win in Lake Tahoe. The sound engineer from Hampton earned himself $16,540 and defeated a worthy opponent in Adam Owen.

“It feels great. Really good. I’ve been playing poker since I was really, really young. In my early 20’s I started realizing tournaments are way more fun. I don’t really play cash games. Tournaments are where it’s at for me,” smiled the newly crowned champion.

In talking about how poker has gotten tougher with training sites and solvers, Hollingsworth focuses on online content. “One thing that’s been really helpful for me is just examining content from people who are doing a lot of online play. When I was having a long run of online stuff Jason Somerville was a big one. Doug Polk. All of their analytic breakdowns have been really helpful for me.”
