NICHOLAS VERDERAMO CAPTURES SIXTH CIRCUIT RING

He wins three of the last four Circuit events he played

Just a few days ago, Nicholas Verderamo captured his fifth Circuit ring after taking down Event #2: $400 No-Limit Hold'em (4 Flights) at the WSOP Circuit stop at Harrah's Atlantic City. Today, he has broken through to the winner's circle once again after winning Event #8: $400 No-Limit Hold'em (1 Day). He battled through a field of 103 players and earned the top prize of $9,709.

While many players spend years chasing a ring, Verderamo makes it look easy. He attended a total of five Circuit stops overall and he has already collected six Circuit rings. In fact, he claimed the title of three of the last four Circuit events he played.

"It's unbelievable how well I run. Yesterday, I almost went back to back to back. I won the WSOP Circuit High roller in Baltimore, I came here Saturday and won the multi-flight event, (this was my second Circuit tournament in a row), I played yesterday and busted, and today I won."

Verderamo was down to six big blinds on the money bubble but between his experience, and holding when it matters, he didn't take long to be back in the game.

"I felt like I was one of the stronger players there so experience definitely is helpful with this. There were also a lot of hands where I was ahead, but not by much, but I always survived," Verderamo explained.

The newly crowned champion ended up defeating Gianni Cangiano as his last opponent to claim his sixth Circuit title.
